REGISTRAR

We Contribute

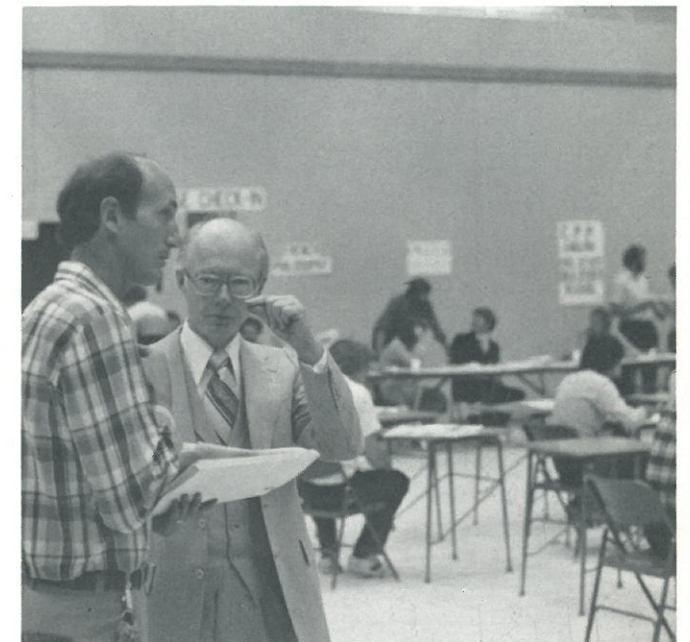

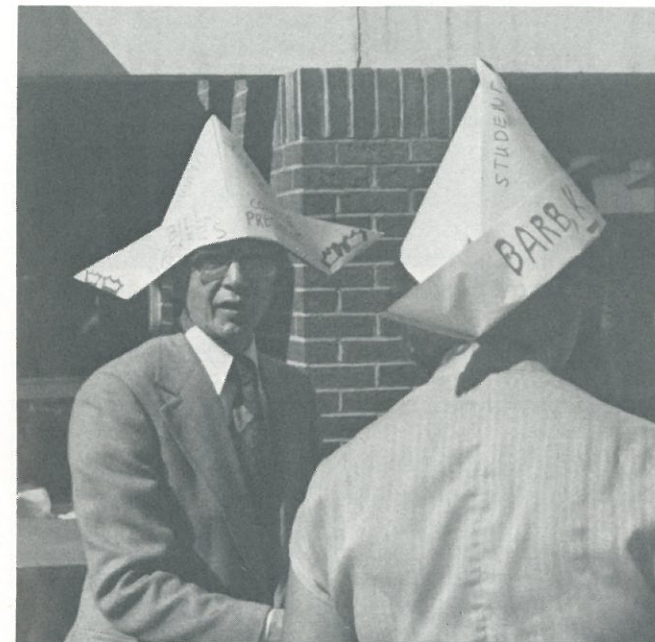

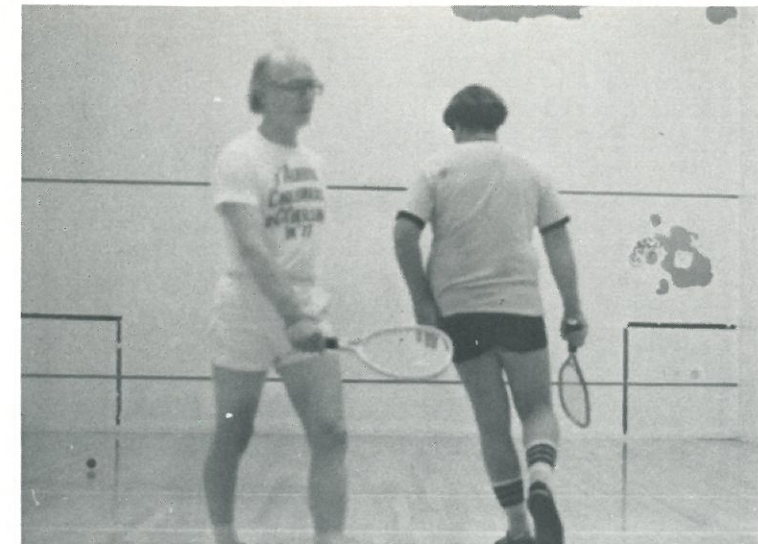

The 1981-82 Academic Year saw the Student Association effectively adjust to a 22% increase in the full time student population at Red Deer College. The next major organizational task falling to those managing the Student Association will occur in the fall of 1982 when the first set of new residence units will be completed. This addition will require good cooperation between the Student Association and the Residence Association to ensure that activities are available in the evening and on weekends for the over 375 students who will then be living on campus. Planning for this, however, has belonged to you - the Class of '82!

Another aspect of effective planning is that of "continuity". With this in mind I would encourage those in their first year, or in a C.P.P. program, to spend wherever possible their second year at Red Deer College. The benefit to you is that you can more easily gain the academic and practical skills you are seeking because you "know the staff and you know the ropes". Additionally, university records show that those transferring to these institutions usually perform even better in their third year than do their classmates who took their first two years at a university. The benefit to the Student Association is equally as great. Continuity is provided to Student Council, Academic Council, College athletic teams, and the multitude of other Committees and Societies on which students sit.

Sincerely, I would extend my thanks for an excellent year - and wish you all success in your ongoing career development.

Dr. W.G. Forbes

THE PREZ SEZ!!

So, another year at good ol' R.D.C.S.A. ends in fine style and with poly class. We managed through the tremendous effort and utilization of a vast pool of talent, to get the whole province upset with us in regards to our Institutional License. The facts show that they are wrong and we are right. Therefore, offer your help to the new S.A. Executive and if you have any questions about the licensed lounge, be sure to ask, so you can get your facts straight. Almost every post-secondary institution in Alberta has an Institutional license and they all received theirs without any province-wide opposition. Thanks Reverend Russell.

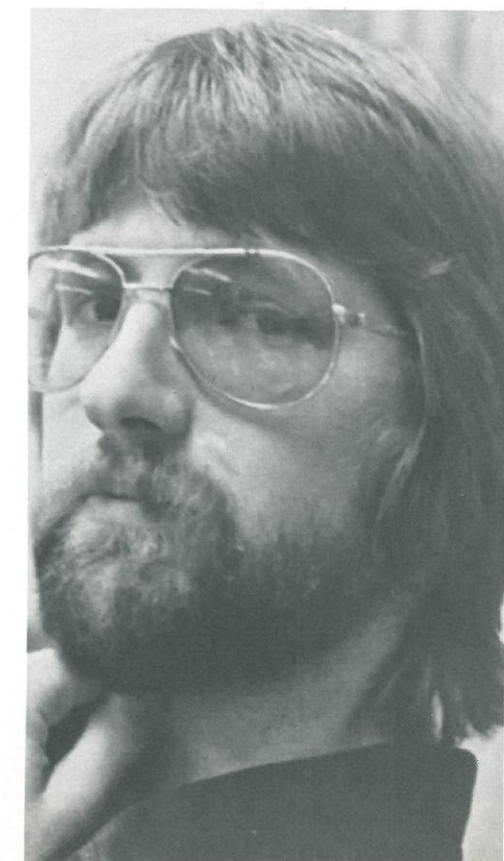

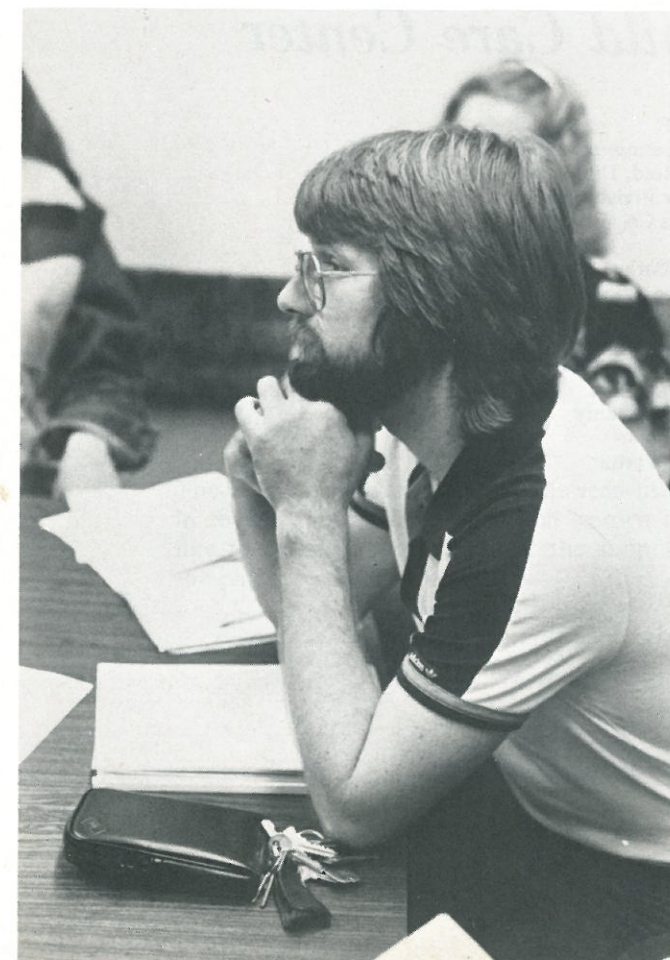

This year has also seen vast improvements to our building. Incidentally, be proud of the fact that we are the only college or technical institution in Alberta where the students own their own building.

Also this year, myself and the presidents of the other colleges and technical institutions have formed the Alberta Colleges and Technical Institutions Student Executive Council (ACTISEC). Look for big things from them.

To you students who won't be back, best wishes in your careers or in your further studies. Remember, nothing is achieved without hard work.

To those of you who are coming back next year, study hard, get good marks but don't forget your social life. Have fun and make your college career enjoyable. To everyone in general, Skoll!

Yet another assault on the Empire

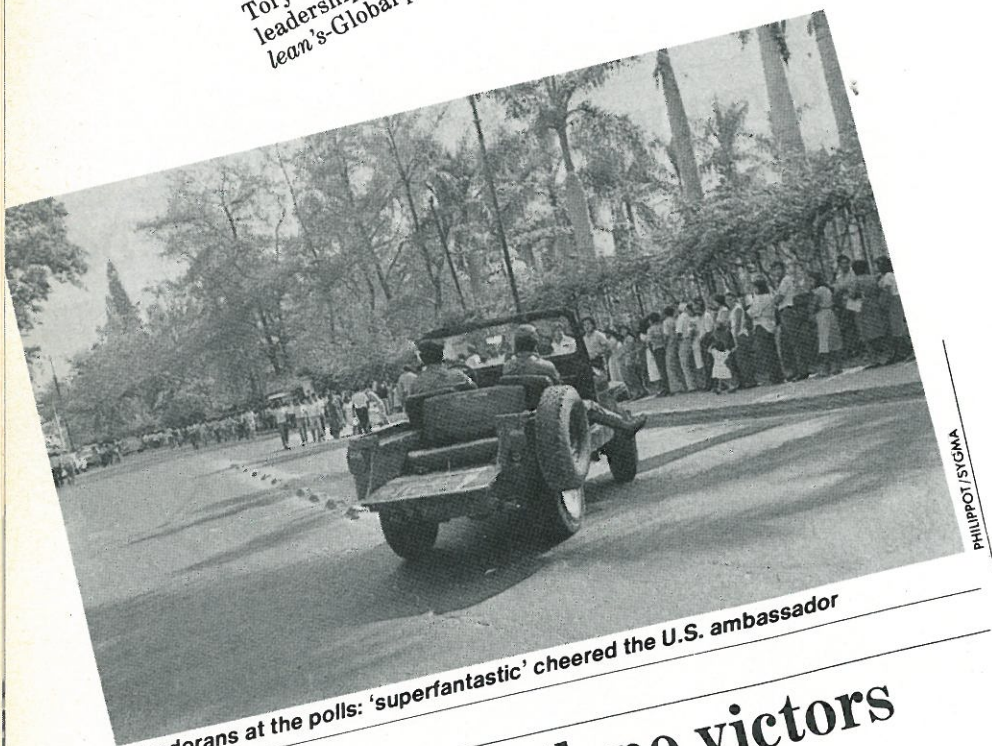

Death of Sadat

Although the body of Egyptian President Anwar Sadat was laid to rest last week, the mystery surrounding his brutal murder lingered on. Who really was behind the assassinations? What will the repercussions be for the fragile Middle East peace? How will Sadat's successor perform? The only disbelief of the official Egyptian version of events.

EL SALVADOR

An election with no victors

As gunfire ricocheted through the capital and full-scale civil war isolated about one-third of El Salvador last week, 1.2 million citizens lined up to cast their ballots. Some dodged bullets as they waited up to six hours under a murderous sun. "I've seen people so anxious to vote," says one official Canadian observer, "I've never seen anyone like Wenman."

Invasion of the Smurfs

"I don't like dolls, I just like Smurfs," stresses five-year-old Sara Zippin, who has been collecting the blue-and-white plastic gnomes since she was 3½. To date, she has amassed 103 Smurf figurines, not to mention Smurf mushroom houses, Smurf stamps, a Smurf record and plush Smurfs that range in size from hand-held beanbags to her prized five-foot Smurf.

Canadians are better liver

Next to squabbling among themselves, Canadians' favorite pastime seems to be measuring themselves against their southern neighbors. While Canadians nurture inferiority complexes and stew over their self-doubts, Alex Michalos, a philosophy professor at Ontario's University of Guelph and a transplanted American, has produced a study concluding life is better and happier north of the 49th parallel. In five mammoth volumes, the last to be published this spring, Michalos' North American Social Report synthesizes hundreds of tables and statistics culled between 1964 and 1974. After years of exhaustive investigation, comparing everything from health (there are almost twice as many cases of venereal disease per capita in the U.S.) to religion (fewer Canadians believe in the devil), Michalos believes Canada emerges the clear victor in the quality of life competition. Final score: 884 to 775.

EUROPE

Getting down to the arms business

The stage had been set with a flurry of dramatic proposals and counterproposals before an international audience. But when negotiators from the United States and the Soviet Union met in Geneva last week to begin talks on limiting nuclear weapons in Europe, the time for serious diplomacy had arrived. Emerging from a preliminary 90-minute session with his Soviet counterpart, Yuli Kvitsinsky, the chief American negotiator, Paul Nitze, described the meeting as "cordial and businesslike." He also announced, with Soviet agreement, that there would be a news blackout. "We want these talks to succeed," he said.

An insidious social disease

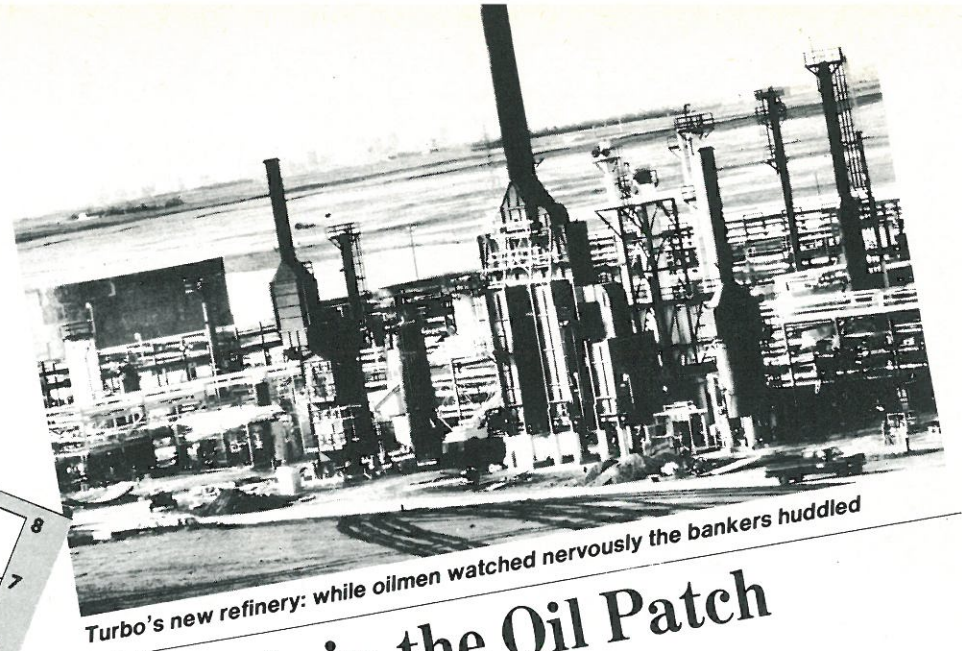

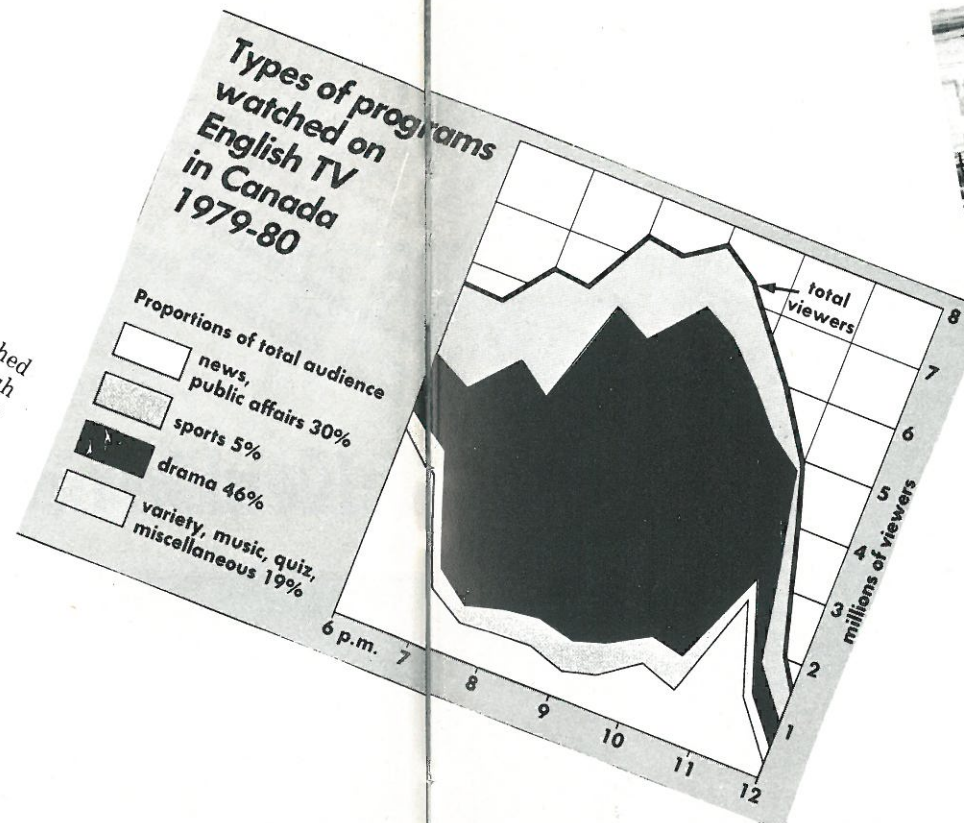

From its name, it sounds more like some rare hothouse plant than a serious venereal infection. But chlamydia trachomatis is in fact the most prevalent sexually transmitted disease in Canada today. The reason: doctors have difficulty diagnosing it and laboratories don't have the trained personnel or the equipment to detect it. As a result, researchers are now pointing to chlamydia as one of the major causes of infertility.

The crisis in universities

Fiscal woes imperil the future of Canada's universities, and cut- —Page 58

While Pierre Trudeau perched on the lofty slopes of British Columbia's Whistler ski resort last week, most of his flock of Liberal MPs were scurrying for the bunkers in their constituencies. Hot on their heels came the voters, seething with traditional rage. They brandished lists of complaints about the November budget, the state of the economy, the prime minister's approach to Poland and the created a remarkable grassroots protest that a postal rate increase and the Canadian apathy into anger—to the fright of the ruling Liberals.

Much of the fury focused on the controversial budget tax changes. Liberal MPs complained in interviews that they had been hounded by such powerful lobbyists as the insurance companies and the new tax on employer-paid medical plans. Even the normally silent medical troversial class is outraged about the tax on such perks as company cars. The budget is another notch in belt-tightening that they just figure is getting too tight," sighs southern Ontario MP Jim Schroder. "And the tenor of many of my letters is, 'Of course this letter won't do any good...'"

Turbo's new refinery: while oilmen watched nervously the bankers huddled

A crisis in the Oil Patch

The prevailing mood of anxiety among Alberta oilmen deepened noticeably last week. In corporate boardrooms and favorite watering holes the unease was unmistakable. Its cause: the financial crisis that had overtaken one of the major resource companies in the Oil Patch, Turbo Resources Ltd. Caught in a takeover deal last summer from a $600-million debt and burdened by a $22-million loss for 1981 load, Turbo sent out distress signals. It announced a $22-million loss for 1981 and a program of staff and executive pay cuts. Then its officers huddled with a platoon of bankers in the company's Calgary offices to hammer out a re-scheduling of its debt load. At week's end, it was unclear what the banks will do with Turbo. Normally approachable Turbo President Bob Brawn refused to comment publicly on the situation, leaving a besieged communications manager, Doug Evans, to fend off hosing questions. Said Evans: "Turbo is tainly not sick. The company's r been sick." But it is obviously feeling well.

On its third try for Olympic immortality, Calgary wins the 1988 Winter Games

By Gordon Legge

When Frank King took on the chairmanship of the Calgary Olympic Development Association (CODA) 2½ years ago, he embarked on a quest for the ultimate competition in amateur sports, the Olympic Games. He also entered the illusory and often fickle world of Olympic politics, the professional sport with no rules. Besides contending with three levels of Canadian government, it was the 45-year-old oilman's job to court and cajole the aristocrats of international sport, the members of the autocratic International Olympic Committee (IOC). King had to convince them that Calgary should be the site of the 1988 Winter Olympics. It was a role for which he was ideally suited, with his boyish charm, contagious enthusiasm and evident sincerity—all masking a steely sense of realism. Last week, his efforts paid rich dividends. Calgary was awarded the 1988 winter Games.

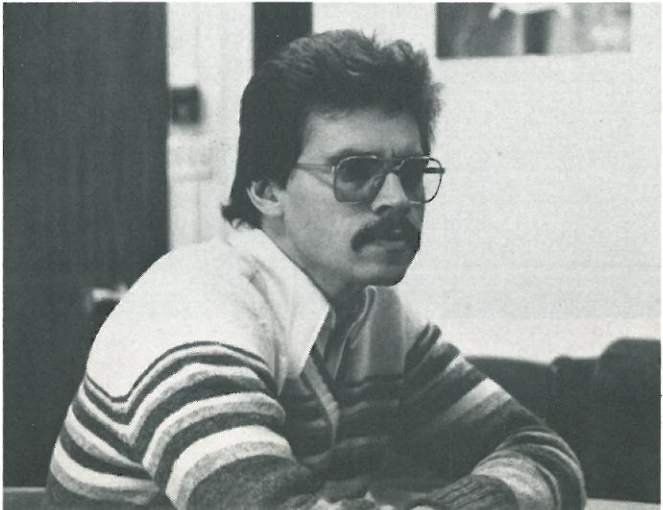

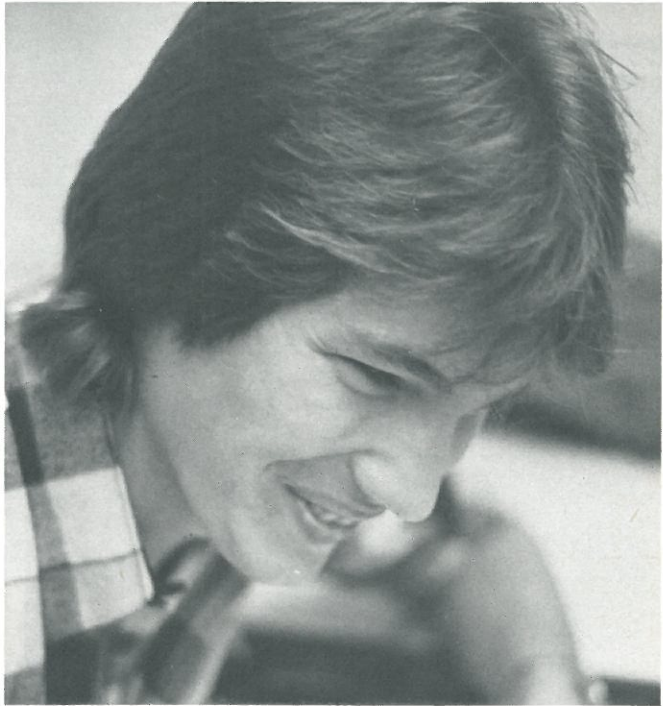

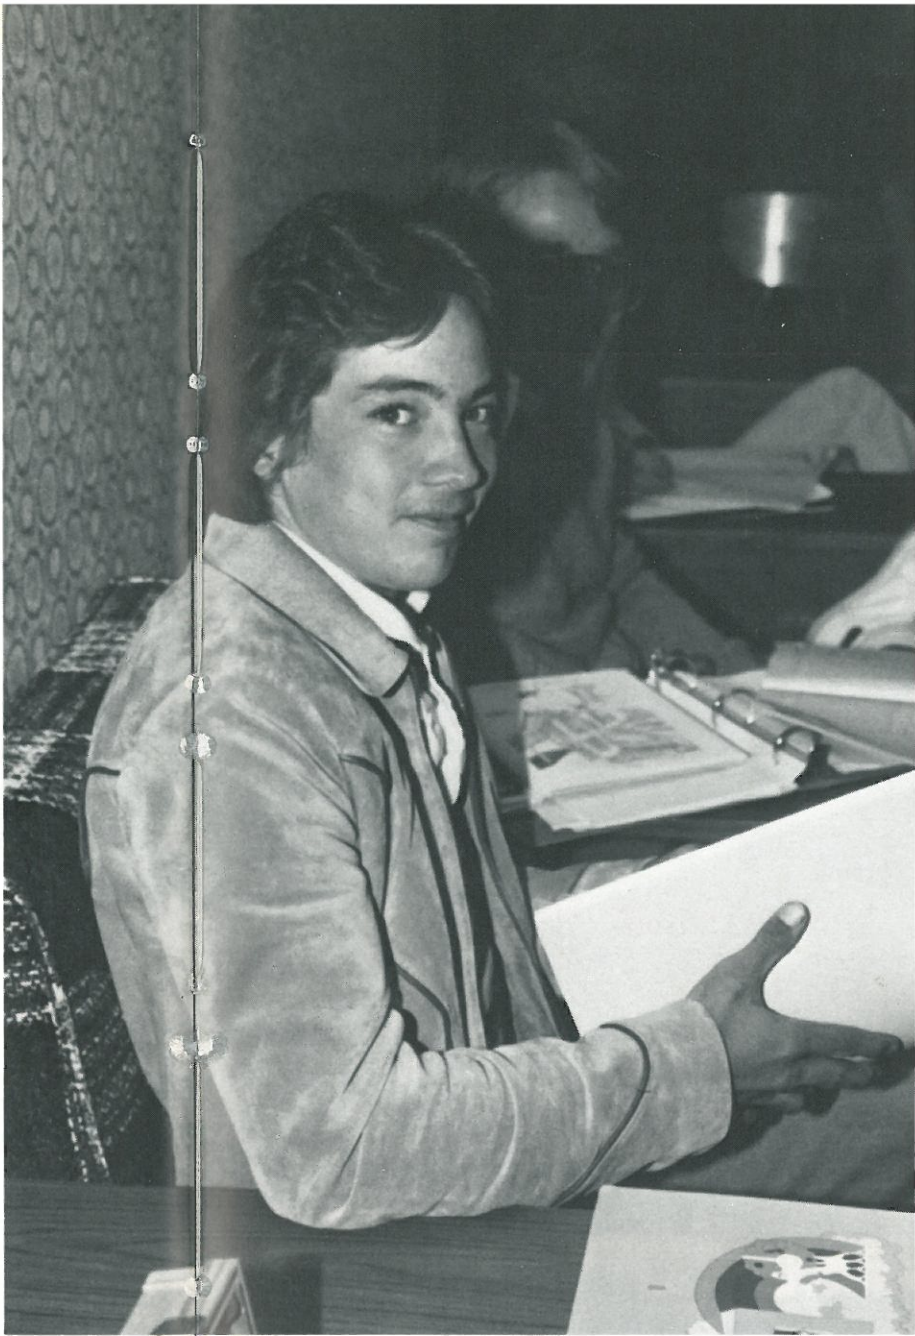

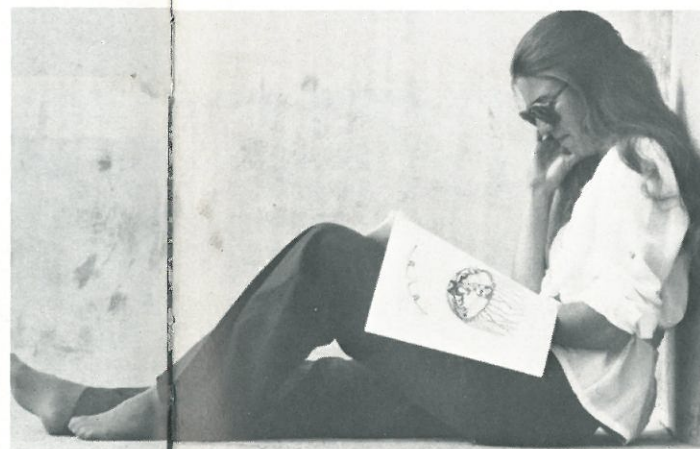

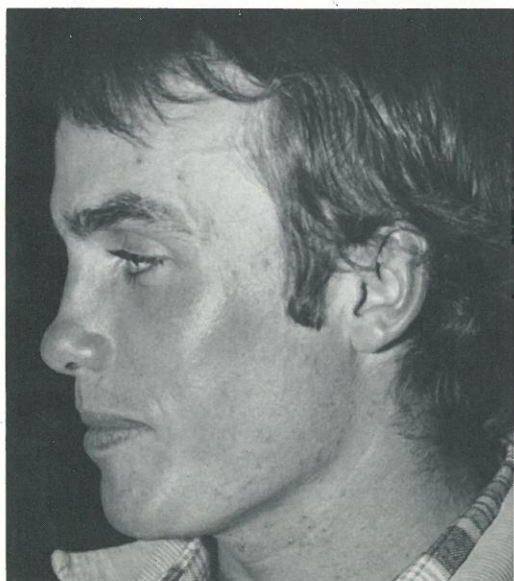

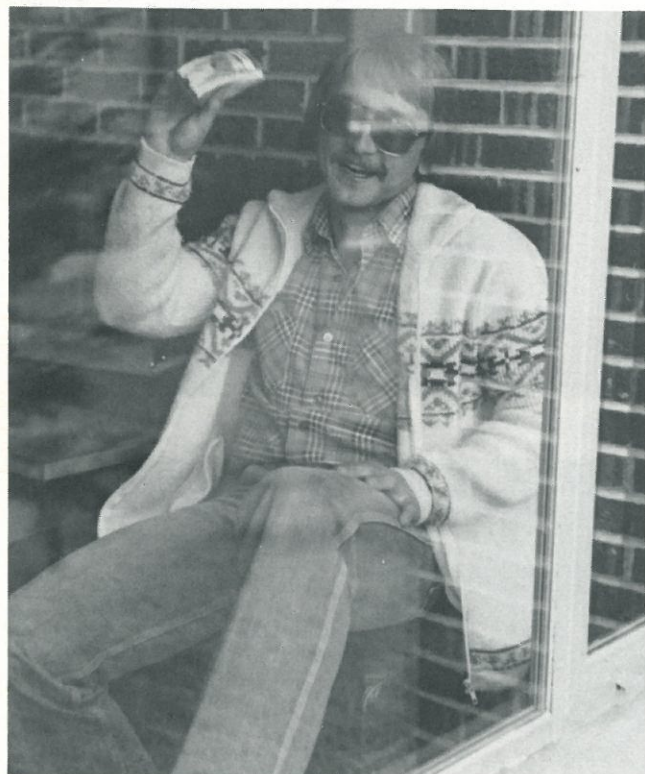

The glory of Gretzky

At 21, Wayne Gretzky is at the top of his profession, a hockey player of such talent that only time stands between him and every scoring record in the game. In the past four years he has established himself as a star of unique ability. His has become the most recognized face in hockey. Admirers agree he is nothing short of miraculous, but everybody has a different idea about how he did it.

NEIL THOMAS SAUNDERS
June 26, 1962 - December 26, 1981

'Tis better to have tried in vain,
Sincerely trying for a goal,
Than to have lived upon the plain
An idle and a timid soul.

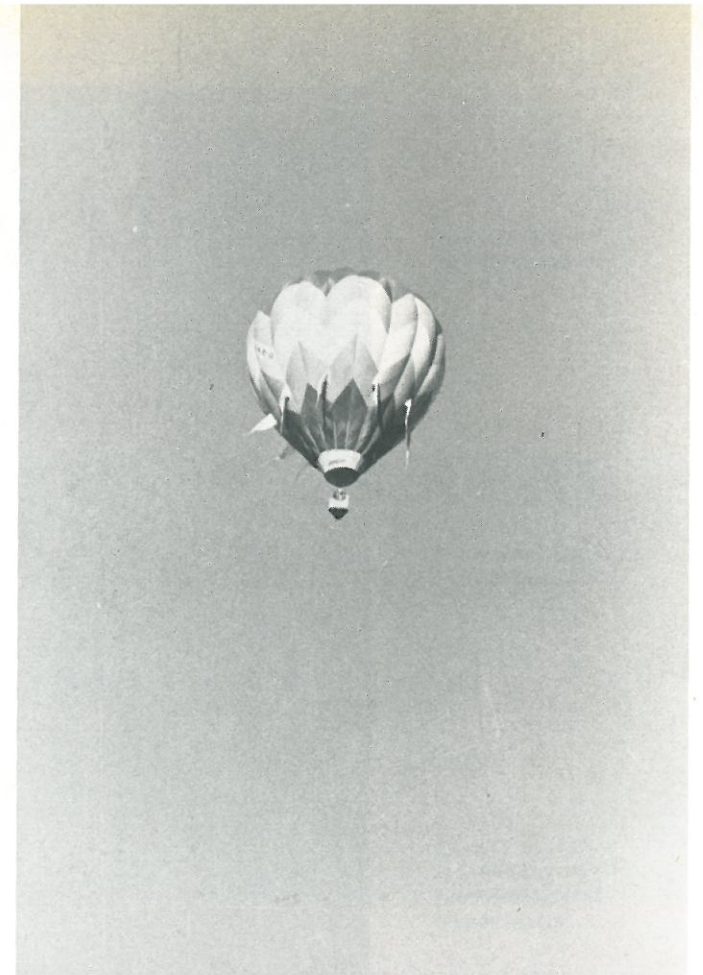

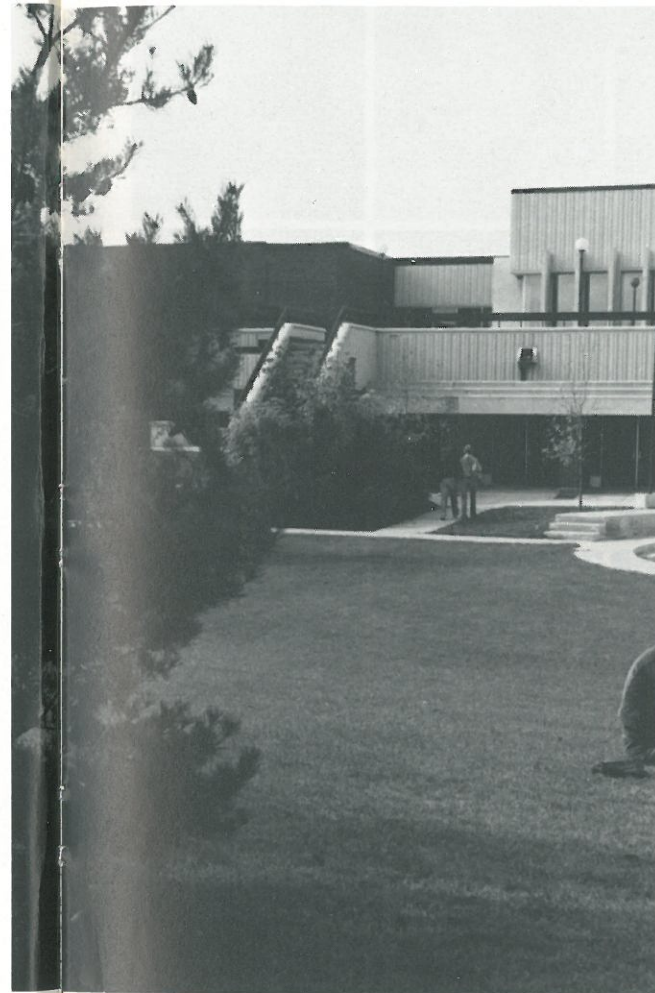

'Tis better to have fought and spent
Your courage, missing all applause,
Than to have lived in smug content
And never ventured for a cause.

For he who tries and fails may be
The founder of a better day;
Though never his the victory,
From him shall others learn the way.

-Edgar Guest

They fail and they alone, who have not striven.

The CGA Designation...

Your next step on a great career path

The Certified General Accountant designation can help you get to the top in financial management. Because it tells potential employers that you have successfully completed an intensive training program which combines academic knowledge with extensive on-the-job experience. They'll know you are prepared to meet virtually any financial challenge in such areas as accounting, auditing, income tax planning, business consultation and financial management.

The CGA designation after your name denotes professional status. You could earn it in less than two years, depending on your qualifications. Start planning to further your career goals today. Discuss your future with a CGA Career Counsellor.
