President's Message

Dr. Dan Cornish, President, Red Deer College

You have reached the end of another year of formal learning. I am sure it has been a year of growth and a time of change. I suspect you have come to recognize that change is really another word for growth and learning. Life for all of us is a process of learning, growing, and changing. If change is normal, what is it now which makes this change so daunting and even frightening?

It does seem that change at this time in our history is different. Changes today do not seem to be part of a familiar pattern. Change both feels and is disconnected from past experience. To all of us who seek some predictability, this discontinuity is distressing and confusing. How do we know what to do to be ready for tomorrow?

Some have suggested that our attitude toward change is critical. We need to be positive and believe in our ability to rise to the challenge. So we have also suggested that we need to think about life in discontinuous or upside-down ways. What was acceptable when change was continuous does not work now, and so we must consciously entertain absurd or unusual possibilities.

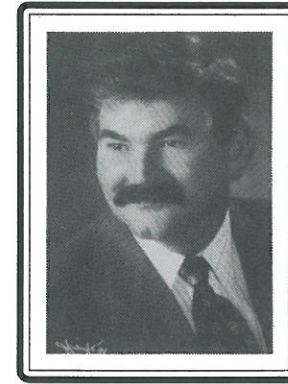

While these are useful words of encouragement, I think the real answer lies in better understanding the nature of change itself. Change happens, but change is also learning. So, how do we best cope with change, whether predictable or discontinuous? We must not focus on the acquisition of specific knowledge or skill alone. In a time of discontinuous change, it is not essential that we emphasize the attitude and skill of being continuous learners.

Red Deer College is proud that you have chosen to share your learning with us. Congratulations on a successful conclusion to this stage of your growth, and good luck as you continue your learning journey. Your college will be ready to be a partner anytime in the future as you cope with the challenges of change.

Students' Association

It has been quite a term for me, but it has been one of the best (and busiest) years of my life. "Generation X", as most of us have been labeled, must deal with many difficult changes, and education, like most things in our era, is in a state of transition. This has meant it has been a difficult year dealing with the rising costs of education, tuition hikes, and government cuts.

Putting the tougher issues aside, I've thoroughly enjoyed working on behalf of RDC students, treasured every moment working with fellow students, and will remember the many experiences of this past year. Through it all, I hope we all have acquired a meaningful education, participated in some extra curricular activities, and enjoyed the overall RDC experience. I have built a number of memorable friendships while at Red Deer College, and I hope they extend beyond our years here.

All the best to everyone in their pursuit of love, wealth, fun, and happiness.

Doug Wagstaff, SARDC President

What?! It can't be yearbook time yet!?! Yearbooks are for the end of the year, and for remembering back!

It has been a crazy, fast paced year!

Thank you, to all the Volunteers, SA staff, College Administration, Faculty and staff for a fantastic experience! A few things stand out - the Red Deer Parade, One Step - One stop, ACTJSEC and our friend the constitution (ha ha), painting the stairwell, the white paper and new tuition fees, Sue Johanson and Kevin Hughes, SPELT, the student food bank, Mitch from Romania, Moby Dick, moving Doug's office into the forum and having Doug arrested.... Oh wait! I know nothing, I saw nothing.... I just work here remember?!?

All the best in your future endeavors!!
Sheila Soder,
SARDC Internal Vice President

This year has gone by so immensely fast I have barely had a minute to stop and think about something other than school and work, never mind all the exciting and interesting things that have happened. ➡ ➡ ➡

Wow!

What a year! As my term of office draws to a close, I am realizing how much I am going to miss Red Deer College, and although this has probably been the busiest year of my life, how much I will miss serving the students. It has been a very active year at the SA, with Strategic Planning, changing policies, and an involved Academic Council, but I have learned an incredible amount and I am sure that the experience will serve me well for the remainder of my life. I hope I did some good, for present and future students at RDC. Au revoir, and good luck to all!

Tim Derrick, SARDC Academic Vice President

All the way from Welcome Week, Ice Breaker Beach Bash, Alcohol Awareness Week, Halloween Bash with 54-40 and Furnaceface, Winterthing, Safebreak, Enderbender and all the great bands that we brought into the Far Side Lounge. It was my intention this year to provide students with meaningful experiences by giving them fun things to do after class and information to help them live a healthy life (with READJ). If I have only affected a few individuals, I have been successful. I cannot leave out all those people like the all SA staff (especially Jennifer who helped me make posters), the other SA executives, society executives, SAC committee members, and everyone else in the whole wide world. It's been a slice, I hope you had a good year, I'm outta here.

Tanya MacLeod, SARDC Activities Vice President

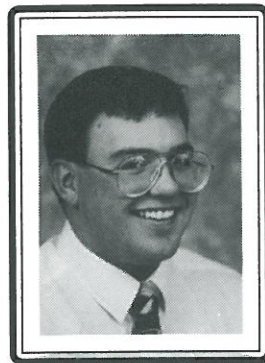

The student Board of Governor position has certainly changed since I filled it two years ago. We have seen a new College President take office, established a new tuition fee policy and developed a strategic plan to see RDC through the uncertainty that lies ahead. Closer to home, the student Board of Governors position itself has been moulded into a redesigned Internal Vice President position. This will allow for greater accessibility to both the first and the last "Board of Governors Representative" to write a yearbook submission and I am excited about the possibilities for the future. Being the student on the Board of Governors has been an incredible challenge and I am thankful to the students, staff and administration of RDC who made everything seem worthwhile.

Thanks gang!!

The Bricklayer

The Campus Newspaper at Red Deer College • 1994/1995

News

After three long, hard years, News Editor David Strand is still trying to use the paper to brainwash people and to pump up his ego. Helping him in his efforts were Jennifer Pears, Sorcha McGinnis, and Ni Quole Smart, to mention just a few.

Women's Issues

Photography

Layout

Layout Editor Allison Greenwood (left) was quoted as saying "If I die before this paper comes out, prop me up next to the 'Jukebox'". Suzanne Allen (right) wanted a paper that is printed in ink that doesn't stain your hands and face.

Entertainment

Keeping the college up to date on the latest in Entertainment! Entertainment Editor Mike Flewwelling (top left) dreams of speaking with Bob Marley on the issue of legalization of pot. Riley Boll (top right) just wanted to provide insightful little write-ups discussing what he loves - movies. Keeping the college entertained the rest of the time were Marilee Murgatroyd, Peter Heinen, Matthew Stephan, Tim Richholt, Buttsteak and Sarah Newton, and many other contributors. And for the latest in advice, we went to Dear Jane (bottom left) where she was sure to answer your concerns.

Gravity Bites

Darcy Tymko (right) and Trevor Gamelin (left) kept us in tune with the law of gravity. (The gravitational pull being, of course, all sexy females to their extremely studly demeanor!) Ya, keep believin' it guys!

Opinion

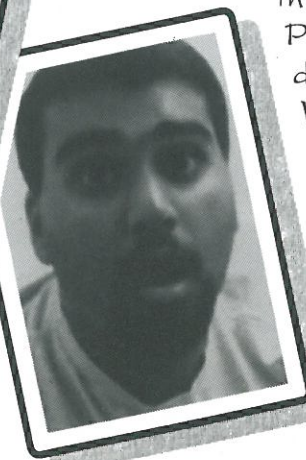

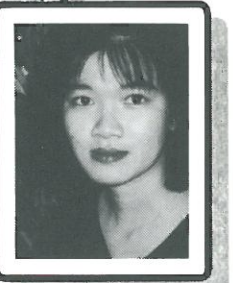

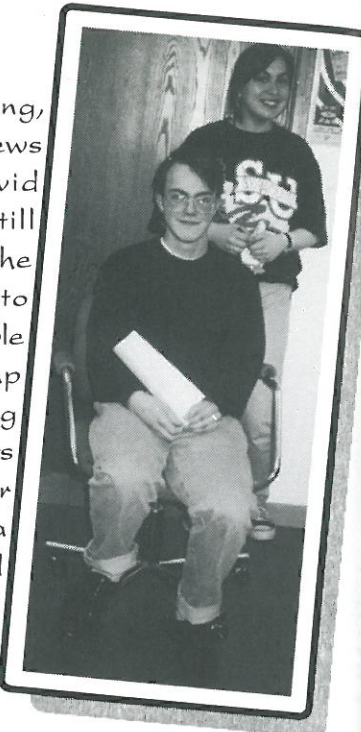

Onto getting your opinion out on whatever issue you like, Opinion/Stories Editor Rob Lee (top centre) wanted to make sure that the word "sheep" was never again mentioned in the paper. Darryl Cornish, aka Spot the Dog (top left), provided some insightful humor, while Catherine Nguyen kept us entertained with stories of her home country Vietnam, and about talking animals, (no sheep) though.

Distribution

Distribution and Recycling Engineer Andrea Mullen made sure that after everyone else had done their part, she got the paper into the pretty purple distribution boxes, and picked them up after two weeks on the stands to recycle them.

Spirituality

Spirituality Editor Ruby Keen, (right), provided some much needed insight into what troubled us spiritually, and made us think about some real topics. Contributors were readily available for this section!

Hot Dog Day

Mitch

by David Strand

MIRCEA OLTEAN makes a strong first impression. I hauled myself into the Bricklayer office, my brain dead after a long midterm, to find him staring intently at the screen of one of our new computers.

"Like this?" he asked Allison, our #1 layout volunteer. Allison shook his head.

"No, like this," and Mircea moved the mouse. Then, noticing me, he looked up and smiled.

"Hi."

I introduced myself, and explained that Rob, our publisher, wanted me to interview him. He smiled and introduced himself, carefully sounding out the complexities of his name, though it remains unpronounceable to me.

"But you can call me Mitch," he adds with an understanding smile.

Mircea is a student at the University of Craiova, a city of one million inhabitants about 270 kilometres from Bucharest, in Rumania. He speaks fondly of the countryside, describing with affection the rolling hills of the land that surrounds his parent's home, just outside of Craiova. But the city, he explains, is dirty, filthy, and grey, ruined by communism. He was a reporter for Rumania's first free newspaper, and is a reporter for a radio station. He produces a pocketful of small folders with brown snapshots that look like something out of another era to prove his employment. He is in his third year of studies in the Faculty of Letters & History, and is also the Director of English for the University's diminutive but determined Students association. He is here to learn about how to run a students association, and how to work within the university's constitution, which is based entirely on Red Deer College's Student's Association constitution.

And he has a lot to learn. Democracy isn't working very well in Rumania, at either the national level or the student government level. To begin with, it's a struggle for their SA to get anything from the university. It used to have a fair sized office, much the same as a professor's office at RDC. But the faculty kicked them out when a professor from Spain arrived needing office space, and the SA was moved to a room the size of a broom closet, literally. With so little influence and respect with the university administration, the SA can't offer much to students, yet. But the SA's first elections will be held in April, and the executives are vying to get donations from private companies, which are now allowed to pay a percent of their taxes to charities. And a beauty pageant/talent show will soon be held as a fund raiser.

On top of that, as Mircea explains, communism has ruined the elements of human nature that are necessary to make democracy work. Under communism, almost everything was illegal and laws were strictly enforced, and yet every citizen was guaranteed a job regardless of how hard or how well they worked. So now, with

Democracy, there is anarchy in Rumania. Anyone who tries to make a rule, whether it be no smoking areas or speed limits, are labelled "communists" and are scorned. NO rules are obeyed. And the work ethic common in democratic countries just hasn't caught on in Rumania; cafeteria food is almost inedible because workers steal most of the ingredients.

That issue, came up as we sat in RDC's cafeteria eating food that is often criticised by our students. Mircea was disoriented by the variety available, and had no idea of what a "BLT" or a "Clubhouse" is, even though they do have burgers in Rumania. "They aren't the same as they are here," he says. "And pizzas are really small at home, the size of dinner plates."

Although Mircea seems like any student at RDC, it isn't difficult to see why he is so popular at his own university. He charmed the cafeteria staff without knowing in. Everyone who speaks with him remarks about his depth of knowledge and interesting conversation.

As impressed as we seem to be with Mircea, he is also very impressed with RDC and Canada in general. "It's like living in a movie," he says. American movies are often seen in Rumania, so Mircea is familiar with the general appearance of north American society. But Rumania, he explains, is about 20 years behind north America, and is has the 77th highest standard of living among the world's nations, compared to Canada's first place. So, really, visiting Canada is like stepping into the future to Mircea. "Calgary was gorgeous," he remarked after a two day visit to the city, and added that our roads are much better than those in his country, which are riddled with potholes. "If we had your roads, we wouldn't go 110. We'd go real fast, like in Germany!"

Yet he is also proud of his own country. "Rumania was once the Switzerland of Eastern Europe," he explains. "We exported agricultural products to all of Europe." And he also insists that the constitutions of all western countries are based on Rumania's, which was apparently very liberal and democratic in the 1920's. "But communism ruined it all," he explains. "Imagine people with only 3 years of education running your country!"

Despite the many problems that continue to plague Rumania, Mircea remains optimistic about his future. He is obviously bitter with the country's old communist regime, but is also committed to staying in his country and helping it grow. "So many talented people have left Rumania for North America," he says. "Here they make money. But they don't work for their people, their country." Mircea hopes to be a translator, and later, perhaps, open his own publishing firm. But first, he needs the education, something that Mircea obviously is very committed to.

The educational system in Rumania is not all that different from our own. Mircea starts classes at eight or clock, and, depending on his schedule, attends lectures all day, or has parts of the day left for studying.

The big difference between the Rumanian and Canadian educational system is government involvement. In Rumania, the education-government relationship hasn't changed much since communist days. The government still prescribes all courses, leaving no room for student electives. Class size is limited to about thirty eight students for most courses. The government also gives bursaries to students to go to university, which can almost be compared to a salary for a paying job. The higher the student's mark, the higher their bursary will be. Of course, it's not good money - a top student might only get $40 per month, but hey. I wouldn't mind if our government gave me money!

Over the next few weeks, Mircea hopes to learn skills and techniques at Red Deer College that he will be able to take back to Rumania and use to build his country's. J, for one, wish him the best of luck, and remain confident that with people like Mircea working with such dedication, Rumania will overcome its troubles and become a healthy, modern nation.

Carousel

by David Strand

The Centre Stage Company's musicals have become a tradition at Red Deer College, especially around Christmas time. And a fine tradition it is. Where else can you see a quality production, complete with colourful, imaginative sets, great (live) music, and often fabulous acting for only $6 (student price)? This year, Carousel, Rodgers and Hammerstein's musical adaptation of a play by Ferenc Molnar, is playing on December 2-3, 6-10, and 26-30, at the Arts Centre Mainstage.

There are many good things to say about this rendition of Carousel. First, the sets are marvellous, and seem to flow seamlessly with the changing scenes. Second, the music is flawless, and the fact that it is live rather than recorded makes it all the better. The acting is, for the most part, very good. Keith Gibboney as Billy Bigelow and Lyndon Anderson as Julie Jordan starred in the show I saw, and Serge Belliveau and Heidi Michelle Thomas rotate to star in other shows. Gibboney and Anderson work well together, and occupy the stage successfully Bigelow (daughter of Billy Bigelow) was striking. In itself, the scene is an important part of the plot and works well to represent the struggles of troubled people, like Billy and Louise. But these two actors brought it to life. Moving gracefully about the stage, they radiated the persona of their characters; the Prince was clearly evil, Louise was obviously struggling. It almost seemed effortless. Understandably, some of the more minor roles were overacted and conflicted with the flow of the program, which may have as much to do with the myriads of characters this musical requires as with the actors themselves. Some of the cast members were not cut out to be singers (although no one was really bad). The scenes in which the entire cast were on stage, dancing and singing, were exciting and enjoyable.

Now for the bad part. The biggest problem I had with this production was the story itself. Through most of the musical, the plot made sense, gave plenty of opportunities for emotion, dancing and all that. Not a heavy storyline, more like a fairy tale than anything. But fairy tales have good endings. This did not. Billy is killed in the act of stealing money after starting a family that is doomed to misery from conception onwards (Billy is a spouse abuser.) He goes to heaven - opps, the backyard of heaven, and has the opportunity to return to earth for a day fifteen years later to try and fix his daughter's life - who is, as demonstrated by Ron Mill's and Stacey Murchison's great performance - an outcast, due to her father's irresponsible way of life. After some coaxing, he does return. And what does he do? He punches his daughter. He swipes a star from his "heavenly friend" and gives it to his wife, and tells her that he loves her (something he never said in life). And that's it. That, apparently, made his daughter's life all better. I felt as though I was missing something, as did many in the audience. Either they cut a scene out of this version, something didn't come across very well, or the musical doesn't make sense to begin with. And then, in the final moments of the play, they really pull out all the stops and have Billy climb a hill and outstretch his arms in a Christlike fashion. What the hell is that? Another part that p.o.'ed me was Julie Jordan's assertion that it is possible for someone to hit you without it hurting at all, in response to her daughter's statement made after she was struck by her ghostly father (he hit me but it felt like a kiss.) I'll bet that most victims of spousal abuse, or child abuse, won't claim that the blows they receive feel like kisses.

In all, Carousel is a good effort by all, and is certainly a good way to spend an evening. Expect dancing that is fun to watch, great sets, good acting, and wonderful music. But don't come looking for a plot that compares with some of the other shows Centre Stage has put on through the years.

when in leading scenes. The remainder of the large cast (18 named characters and many anonymous townspeople) also gave good performances. Jennifer Prestash, Jennifer Tibo, and (as always) Angela Funk gave lively, believable performances that were fun to watch. Shaun Jonstone was excellent, and managed his character's transition from a simple fisherman in the first part of the play to a rather stern businessman in the second half very well. The scene dominated by Ron Mills, as Prince of Darkness, and Stacey Murchison as Louise

The Kings Hockey Club, with nine returning veterans from the 1994 ACAC Championship squad, started out the year slowly with five consecutive exhibition losses. Once the regular ACAC season commenced, Red Deer College resumed its customary position as one of the top two or three college hockey squads. The Kings were lead by the stellar playing of goaltender, Ryan Nessman, consistent defensive play of Trent Harper, Dale Roth, Fred Hettle and Kirby Stewart. Offensively, goal scoring was well spread out with the line of Clint Black, Blair Lebsack and Rob Clark being the most consistent.

At the time of print, the Kings were back to their pre-Christmas winning ways, looking for a 15-9-1 record and 31 points. A slump in January moved them to fourth place in the ACAC league, a position that could improve to third by the right combination of losses by their opponents. Four clubs, NAIT, MRC, SAIT, and the Kings all have a legitimate chance at the 1995 ACAC Championships. Augustana and Concordia are the two other members of the tough ACAC league.

The hockey squad was favored with the twenty-first consecutive year of volunteer involvement by Team Manager, Bob "Rudy" Bennett, RDC Chemistry instructor.

Overall, the Queens Basketball Team has had a successful season. The Queens are currently battling for a play-off position with GMCC. The team has been playing very disciplined basketball and are very deserving of a second place finish. The team has ten very strong athletes, and although very young and inexperienced, the team has shown great improvements over the season and has shown an excellent display of disciplined, aggressive women's basketball.

Regardless of the outcome of the season, because of the player's commitment to hard work, the team has grown from a group of inexperienced athletes to a very respected women's basketball team in the ACAC. This in itself, is indicative of the success we have achieved as a team in the '94-95 season.

Kings Basketball

The Kings finished the ACAC regular season with an 11-5 record, good enough for 2nd place in the North Division. The Kings had a very successful season, especially considering the fact that the Kings were a young team with 10 of 12 players in their first season. Veterans Justin Holton and Andre Richard are destined as ACAC All-Stars with Justin also claiming a share of the league's scoring title. The Kings are in the ACAC playoffs for the first time since 1981, and look forward to joining the league's elite in Men's Basketball. Some of the information above has been predicted since the season has not quite concluded.

The Red Deer College Queens Volleyball team entered the 1994-95 ACAC season with only two returning players, Tanya Smith and Crystal Tucker, neither of which had ever been a setter. As a result, this year's edition became the youngest and most inexperienced team in coach Cor Ouwerkerk's 21 years as Queens coach. The year, not unexpectedly, started slowly, with the Queens losing their first 3 league matches. The inexperience was obvious. However, an 11 match winning streak followed, and the team meeting its goal of making the playoffs, and, as such, the year turned out quite positive. Most of this year's team will return next year, and hopefully they will form the nucleus for another ACAC Championship.

Kings Volleyball

To date, the Kings Volleyball Team has enjoyed a successful season. Currently, with a 13-1 league record and a #1 ranking nationally, the Kings are striving to win an ACAC and CCAA title. As a team, this year's RDC squad has captured three tournament gold medals, and beaten the University of Calgary on their way to compiling a 35-5 season record. In his first year coaching the RDC Kings, Keith Hansen is happy with his teams progress and looks forward to the rest of the year.

The start of the 1994-95 season saw the return of only two players from the previous year. However, the newcomers proved themselves to be capable, and with the help of the returnees, Travis Mathison and Nicole Hitchings, put RDC in second place in the south division after the first half of the season.

After the Christmas break, the men's squad, while improving steadily, struggled a bit as Mathison did not return. The women, however completed an impressive number of wins to keep the team in second place. In individual play, Nicole Hitchings and Jennifer Thompson both qualified in singles playdowns in the south division. In ladies doubles, Marlene Holmgren and Jennifer Johnson have become a cohesive team and should do well in that event.

As a team they hope to secure second place in the south, and in doing so qualify for the provincial playoffs.

Swimming

The 1994-95 edition of the Red Deer College Swim Team consists mostly of new members. Curtis Read, Brant Poirier and Tammy Gates were the only returning athletes to the team from the previous year. The men established themselves as contenders in ACAC competition. Sean Carnew led the team in the Breaststroke events while Curtis Read, Chris Rebisz, Lenny Ricker, Stephen Long, Brant Poirier helped the team challenge other colleges. Some team members were also novice to competition and contributed to our successes. Mike Astil and Ben Richards showed determination in learning and their effort paid off for our team. On the women's side, we were fewer in numbers but we were able to provide some competition to the other ACAC teams. Becky Bruin and Tammy Gates led the team in individual competition while the contribution of Alana Mascaluk, Becky Storvik, Christine Small, Naomi Gallant and Lesley Davis should not go unnoticed; through their effort and their competitiveness, they surpassed the goals they had set for themselves and helped the team to be competitive within the league. 1994-95 was a good year for the RDC Swim Team. Through training, studying, traveling and competing, those athletes achieved their athletic goals and lived some experiences that they will carry with them through the rest of their academic life and their career.

The Cross Country Ski Team continued in strong pursuit of ACAC reigning champions and power house Augustana. The 1994-95 team had only one returning skier and for many of the rookies, this was their first competitive experience. It should be noted that this year's team was one of the largest on record with 15 skiers competing through the three month, four race season.

The men's side had excellent performances from Kai Nielson, Gary Chambers and Durand Branch in the ACAC distance of 10 km, while the women were lead by veteran Gina Loewen and rookies Shelanda Kujala and Heather Fegan in the ACAC distance of 5 km.

All athletes contributed to an excellent competitive season from the training camp at the Canmore Nordic Centre, the 55 km Birkebeiner Ski Festival in Edmonton, to the third and final ACAC race in Lac La Biche.
